Reflection

Looking back at the website I crafted for this assignment and comparing it to what I had in mind back in A1, I'm genuinely surprised by how far I've come. The site now boasts some pretty slick CSS techniques like flexbox and grid layouts, making everything way more organized and adaptable across different devices. And let's not forget about JavaScript – I managed to add some cool features like dark mode toggling and form validation, which really jazzed up the user experience.

As for my thoughts on the assignment itself, it was definitely a challenge, but rewarding. Dave's review sessions helped me wrap my head around the concepts and actually get good at this stuff. I'm super grateful for the chance to learn and improve through this assignment, and I can't wait to put my newfound skills to work on future projects.